CLAIMED TO BE PETTY POLITICS

Charges were brought before the Daly City Fire Commissioners against M. S. Goldberg, Deputy Fire Marshal, by Chief Andy Chesney.

There is no truth to the story, says Goldberg, who states "If that's the case I belong in Napa." Nevertheless Chesney and the Board of Commissioners suspended Mr. Goldberg for three months. Goldberg will appeal to the City Council.

DALY CITY POLICE APPREHEND SLAYER OF SAN FRANCISCO MAN

Alleged Murderer Arrested Sunday Night By Radio Police Officers

About 12:30 a. m. last Sunday night, while cruising about town in a radio car, Officers Sunderland and Dalton received a call by broadcast to be on the lookout for a black Locomobile sedan, license number 8J54-77, driven by Emile Weinaug, age 47 years, of 804½ Douglas street, San Francisco, wanted for murder by the San Francisco Police Department.

At 2:10 a. m. the officers came upon the car, parked in front of Peter's Restaurant, 6286 Mssion street. A man answering the description of Weinaug walked out of the restaurant and attempted to climb into the car. The officers accosted him. He proved to be Weinaug and was taken into custody. He was held at the Daly City Police Station and booked en route to San Francisco.

A few hours before his capture Weinaug shot and killed Richard O'Regan in a beer tavern at 1400 Castro street, San Francisco.

Arraigned before Municipal Judge O'Brien in San Francisco, Weinaug was held on murder charges.

BIG INCREASE IN ATTENDANCE AT DOG TRACK

Fine Races By Greyhounds At Baden Attract Large Crowds

The speed dogs at Baden Kennel Club, champions of two coasts, will go into action again tomorrow night for the benefit of another big Saturday night crowd, it was announced today.

Greyhound racing has staged a definite comeback in popularity according to officials of the South San Francisco track. The opening night crowd was equalled May 23 and May 29, and exceeded on Memorial Day when the greyhounds ran for the War Cry cup presented by W. R. Burnett, owner of the War Cry Kennels and author of "Little Ceaser," "Dr. Socrates," and other popular novels.

The cup went to another, Aristocrat, surprise winner over the top box of sprinters.

The Aristocrat defended his championship Tuesday night, only to relinquish it to Crafty Boy, the All-Florida champion last winter, who ran his true race for the first time this season. Mike Andrews and Andrews Pride, the Gold Dust Twins of racing, were second and third.

OUR NEWSPAPERS GET COMMEND FOR WARNING GIVEN

Efforts To Protect Veterans Receiving Bonus Are Appreciated

High praise for the editorial attitude of California newspapers in their attempts to safeguard bonus funds soon to be received by veterans was voiced today by Frank N. Belgrano, Past National Commander of the American Legion and vice president of Bank of America.

"Within the next two weeks California veterans will receive well over $120,000,000 in cash and government bonds," said Belgrano. "Since it was first announced that this money would be available, the veteran has been deluged with advice on how to spend his back pay.

"Unquestionably there are many opportunities for veterans to employ their funds constructively, but for every such opportunity there are a dozen chances for him to part with it without getting a thing to show for it.

"In pointing out to veterans the pitfalls laid in their paths by sharpers, and other racketeers, the newspapers of California have done a commendable piece of work.

"They have also performed meritorious service for the legitimate business interests of California, who provide the veterans and all other Californians with full value received for their money.

"In the deluge of opportunities to spend which is now being showered on the veterans of California, it is difficult to avoid snap judgments that may be costly. The newspapers have sounded the right note when they tell the veterans to "Stop-Look-Listen."

A BELATED WORD OF THANK YOU

In our Daly City Tanforan baseball writeup in last week's issue of The Record no mention was made of a most important feature of the game played between our team and the Orinda Reds at San Mateo, one that served its purpose in promoting patriotism and encouraging the players to greater effort.

Music plays a large part in our lives and our own Daly City Band has done its share by cheering us all along our way as well as they did our ball players.

The Daly City Tanforans take this opportunity of saying "thank you" to Professor Stevens and the members of the band for the swell music as well as their assistance in the rooting section.

IN U. S. AND ABROAD RACING LEADS SPORTS

By J. W. MARCHBANK

As has been noted by close observers more han once, racing has become the sport of all the people. In an interesting publication, profusely illustrated, entitled "Old English Sporting Books," Ralph Nevill, a well known authority, tersely says:

"The history of sport in England is one of gradual development. Originally indulged in only by the nobility, it has, in the course of years, more or less permeated every class."

Nevill refers to other pastimes than racing, but, as racing is the national sport of England, whatever he says applies with unusual emphasis to contests between thoroughbred horses. So important was the development of racing that such writers on its varied aspects as Charles James Apperley ("Nimrod"), Robert Smith Surtees, and others were ranked high among authors simply for the inherent interest of their work. Critics put Surtees alongside Charles Dickens as a master of life.

With the tendency in this country for racing to take its place as the most popular outdoor amusement it is pertinent to remark on the "invasion" of England by the American horse, Omaha, one of the first "crop" of that other famous performer, Gallant Fox. Omaha was the champion three year old in the United States last year and, judged by his record so far over the Atlantic, is likely to be hailed soon as the best over there.

Omaha has to the full the qualities that make great race horses: speed, stamina and weight carrying ability. All distances seem to be the same to him. Up to this time he has scored at one mile and a half and at two miles on English courses. The big test comes in the Ascot Gold cup, two miles and a half, the middle of this month.

As a personal angle it may be mentioned that Flambino, dam of Omaha, is a daughter of imported Flambette, a steady producer. Flambette is by imported Durbar II, which, it will be recalled, is sire of Xenita, dam of my stallion Xenofol.

VETS OF FOREIGN WARS ACTIVE

The whist party given by the members of the Post degree team and Ladies Auxiliary, last Monday evening, June 1, at Eagles Hall was very successful. Many prizes were given the winners.

The ladies drill team is scheduled for a difficult two weeks. Drill each night and so on to the convention at San Bernardino, June 14-19. So far all critics agree that the ladies should be the winners this year and we think so too.

On Sunday, June 7, "Shut-In Day," the teams will take part in the parade from Taylor and Market streets to the Seals Stadum, where they will give an exhibition drill. A ball game between the Seals and Missions will be played, the proceeds to go to the people confined in various hospitals and other institutions.

On next Saturday, June 6, the Cooties, who are the fun makers of the V. F. W., will hold their monthly meeting in Daly City. This is a call for all Cooties to be present. Any V. F. W. who has not yet joined this fun loving organization should do so at this meeting.

EXPERIENCED HOUSEWIFE CLUB

(By Maude Larue Ives)

A gray haired woman looks back over the years to a time when the farmers of an Eastern rural community used to gather every summer for their annual "Old Settlers Picnic." Tables were set in the country church and the array of salads, cold meats, fruit, pies, cakes and cookies gladdened the eyes and filled the stomachs. These experienced farmers' wives made the most appetizing dishes, rarely ever consulting a cook book.

Whether you are young or old in experience, you have proven up on many valuable lessons in housewifery, helpful household hints, recipes and the like that you would like to exchange with someone else. So join the Experienced Housewife Club by sending a recipe or some helpful thought to the editor of this column. Send all communications to The Daly City Record, Experienced Housewife Department, and be sure to give your name and address. Send communications early in the week, as this paper goes to press on Thursday.

Here's the first recipe:

DELICIOUS CHOCOLATE COOKIES

From "The Farmer's Wife"

2 Cups Sugar 1 Cup Butter
4 Eggs
1 Tablespoon Canned Milk
1 Tablespoon Water
1 Teaspoon Vanilla
2 Cups Flour
3½ Tablespoons Cocoa
2 Teaspoons (double action) Baking Powder
A Pinch of Salt

Cream butter, mix in the sugar and stir until creamy; then add the well beaten eggs, thoroughly combined, adding next the milk, water and vanilla.

Sift together the flour, cocoa, baking powder and salt and add gradually to the first mixture. Continue stirring in more flour until dough ceases to be sticky. Roll out on dough board and cut with a round scalloped cooky cutter. Place a raisin in the center of each and bake in a 350 degree oven for about 10 minutes or until nicey browned.

This recipe makes about five dozen crisp, chewy cookies and Daddy and the children will call for more again and again.

KNOW TRAFFIC LAWS BEFORE DRIVING CAR

Ignorance is not bliss when it comes to state and local traffic laws, says an authority. Ignorance of the law excuses no driver for a violation which results in an automobile accident.

It is every driver's duty to know and to obey all city and state traffic rules and regulations. Such knowledge is just about as essential to your safety as the actual mechanics of driving.

Certain temporary conditions often call for special traffic regulations and these should be observed rigidly. When in doubt, better stop and enquire.

If you plan a trip this summer where traffic laws may be different from those in your community, take a tip, and familiarize yourself with the regulations.

A little thoughfulness in advance may save a lot of trouble and worry later.

GROPE FOR LIVE ONE TO OPPOSE ROOSEVELT

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

It appears to be a well-nigh hopeless task for the rival party to find a candidate that can make any kind of showing against President Roosevelt at the November election. Knowing the strength of the President among the young people of the country the "outs" are making a special effort to win over young women and young men from their ideal, the chief executive of the nation.

Chairman H. P. Fletcher of the Republican National Committee is issuing such statements as the following:

"The Republican party is better organized, more militant and enthusiastic- than at any pre-convention period in its history. Young people should join the Republican army—not to boondoggle, but to fight.

"The Republican party only asks the youth of the country to remain true to their ideals. What finer task can you have than this, of preserving our institutions and our present form of government against the insidious attacks of men who have lost faith in America and their political henchmen, who are corrupting the voters with public money.

"The insidious encroachments on our liberty and on our right to own what we earn, in the guise of a planned economy and the more abundant life, must be recognized before it is too late.

"The Republican party is looking forward on the solid earth of American thought and tradition, not on the marshy and deceptive ground of foreign socialistic theories."

All of which is reminiscent of political tactics of years gone by.

* * *

The Republicans will make little headway in getting the vote of the young people by decrying the liberal leanings of the President, his inclination to look at things from the point of view of human values rather than that of the dividend-mad promoter. His constant aim is to furnish opportunities to the young folk.

There is absolutely no truth in the charge that President Roosevelt is a radical; even to call him a Socialist is beyond the bounds of truth; the best characterization probably is forward-looking Democrat.

Norman Thomas, nominee of the Socialist party for President, waxes wroth when the present chief executive is termed a Socialist. Thomas isn't sure, on the other hand, that the Roosevelt policies will save the country from the forces of reaction.

Thomas recently said:

"Our great problems come from the avowed intention of certain leaders in the labor movement, some of whom have been Socialists, to support Roosevelt against reaction. This is to repeat the mistake of 1916, when they supported Wilson because he kept us out of war.

"We cast no reflection on the motives of the labor leaders. It is their judgment that we challenge. It is far better for the Socialist party that who intend actually or tacitly to support Roosevelt should be outside the party."

This much is clear in all the welter of contradictory opinion—all revolving about President Roosevelt: the standard-bearer of the Democratic party is going to have the support of the youth of the country and also that great host, usually denominated "LABOR." Combined with the strength coming from a majority of women electors and men in smaller businesses, the President will be swept into office by a huge majority.

* * *

If Alf. Landon, governor of Kansas, loses out for the Republican nomination, Nicholas Roosevelt, of an organization calling itself the National Republican Builders, Inc., is of the opinion a number of possibilities exist and that even former President Herbert Hoover and former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills may have a chance for the nomnaton. Ncholas Roosevelt opines Hoover and Mills are the ablest men in the Republcan party.

The remoteness of the possibilities is admitted by Roosevelt in saying:

"While Mr. Hoover has won back much of the sentiment that he had lost, the association of his name with the depression is still so close that it is unlikely he will be nominated.

"Mr. Mills, whose courage and intelligence place him among America's ablest men of today, and whose services to his party have been of exceptional value, is also still under a cloud of unpopularity. It is regrettable that the country should thus be deprived of the use of his very great abilities."

As Senator W. E. Borah, himself more than a "dark horse" for the Republican nomination, has often said, the campaign is going to be one o personal popularity rather than o platforms, and that leaves men of th type of Hoover and Mills out of it.

Tanforans Wallop Three Hurlers In Wild Hitting Game At Latter's Park

In a scrappy, heads up game, last Sunday at Fresno, the Daly City Tanforans came out on the long end of a 10 to 7 score.

The Daly City lads had on their batting togs, and pounded the slants of three resno pitchers to all corners of the park.

The score would have been much smaller but for the atrocious work of the two umpires—both home town boys. Some of our players suggested they could do no better in Fresno uniforms than they did attired in the blue umpire suits.

The game was filled with arguments and near fights from start to finish, the umpires being charged on almost every decision by the players. Even the majority of Fresno fans in the stands were riding the arbiters throughout the game for their incompeted guesses on decisions. The scoring was also bad.

This detail tells how the winners scored their runs:

First Inning:—Goldstein flew out to right field on a long hit. Burke slashed a two bagger over third. Hailer sacrificed him to third base. Petrocchi hit a hard grounder to the short stop, who fumbled and then threw wild to first, Burke scoring and Petrocchi took second. Palmini lined a single into center, scoring Petrocchi. Vasquez sent a screamer between short and third, sending Palmini to third and took second on the throw in. Hannan got a two base blow into left, sending home Palmini and Vasquez. Volkman fanned.

Second Inning—Sturtevant got a hit to left field. Goldstein advanced him to second on a well executed sacrifice. Burke got a base on balls and stole second. Hailer grounded out, third to first. Petrocchi walked. Palmini was called out on strikes on a raw decision.

Third Inning—Vasquez hit to left. Hannan sacrificed. Volkman got a hit between third and short, scoring Vasquez. Sturtevant was safe on a misjudged pop fly. Goldstein fouled to the catcher. Burke went out, short stop to first base.

Fourth Inning—Hailer out, pitcher to first base. Petrocchi walked and was out on an attempt to steal second. Palmini flied to right field.

Fifth Inning—Vasquez walked. Hannan hit between second and first for a single, Vasquez going to third. On a successful double steal Vasquez scored and Hannan took second. Volkman struck out. Sturtevant popped out to short. Goldstein walked and was out stealing.

Sixth Inning—Burke got a single. Hailer bunted and was safe on an error. Petrocchi fanned. Palmini singled to left, loading the bags. Vasquez walked. Vasquez was out at second on an infield grounder by Hannan. Palmini was trapped off second for the third out.

Seventh Inning—Volkman got a single. Sturtevant sacrificed. Volkman scored on a hit by Goldstein. Burke got a single. Hailer singled. Petrocchi struck out. Palmini drilled a hit into the outfield, scoring Goldstein and Burke. Hannan went out, third to first.

Eighth Inning—Volkman fanned. Sturtevant walked and scored on a three base blow to center by Goldstein. Burke out at first, Goldstein holding third. Hailer was out on a long fly to the right center fence.

Ninth Inning—Petrocchi flew to right. Palmini safe on an error. Vasquez walked. On a wonderful catch of Hannan's hot liner to short, Palmini was doubled at second.

DALY CITY ROD AND GUN CLUB

(By "Bill" Grantham)

All is eagerness and preparation for the coming week end. Qui vive, sub rosa and are all the boys praying to be kept out of the Doghouse. The reason: Well there is not much to wonder about, especially when one remembers what a time was had, by all that attended last year's Shindig on the Napa. President Joe Springer on behalf of the Pacific Rod and Gun Club, has again turned over their Club House at Cuttings Wharf to our club for our two days outing, June 6 and 7. Arrangements have all been made for boats, transportation, etc. "Doc" Kost will, as usual, turn the crank on the movie camera.

Saturday evening will be given over to dominoes, checkers and educational movies.

Up to this moment of going to press it has not been decided to hold surf board contests—not knowing what "shape" our champion "Dare Devil" Milo, is in. Plans for the same are up in the air. Should anyone know his whereabouts please convey the news, so we will have tagliarini and chicken on the menu. This will bring the camp. Club members phone "Doc" Kost for reservations for the trip. It is very important that he should know, in order to make reservations for food, boats, transportation, etc.

Until next Saturday and Sunday, so long, and good luck. See you all on the Napa.

LESSON SERMON OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth." These words from Psalms comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, June 7, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

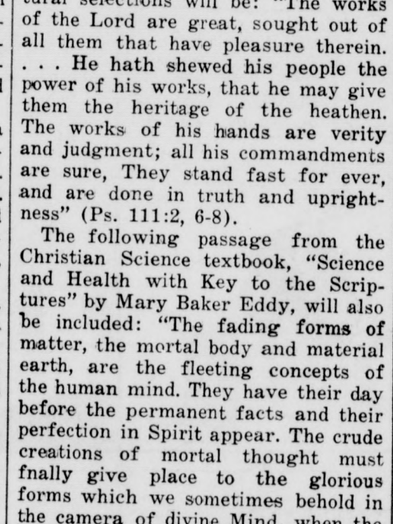
The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "God the Only Cause and Creator." Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "The works of the Lord are great, sought out of all them that have pleasure therein. . . . He hath shewed his people the power of his works, that he may give them the heritage of the heathen. The works of his hands are verity and judgment; all his commandments are sure, They stand fast for ever, and are done in truth and uprightness" (Ps. 111:2, 6-8).

The following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "The fading forms of matter, the mortal body and material earth, are the fleeting concepts of the human mind. They have their day before the permanent facts and their perfection in Spirit appear. The crude creations of mortal thought must fnally give place to the glorious forms which we sometimes behold in the camera of divine Mind, when the mental picture is spiritual and eternal" (pp. 263, 264).

SILENCE HELPS TIRES

Progress, the tire expert will tell you, is a wonderful thing. Such has been the progress in making motor cars silent, for example, that the clicking noises of small stones imbedded in the tire treads now are audible.

Motorists, annoyed by the sound, are digging them out—a thing that tire men have been urging for thirty years. It's good for the tires.



THE DESERT SONG AT THE CURRAN

"The Desert Song," after an absence of seven years, returns to the Curran Theater on Thursday night, June 11. Hailed as one of the greatest opperettas of all time, with all the color and atmosphere of Northern Africa, with sheiks, dancing girls and men of the French Legion and Riff Hills, "The Desert Song" has achieved world-wide fame. Its locale is in one of the world's most romantic spots, just along the border of civilization. Otto Harbach, Oscar Hammerstein II and Frank Mandel made this discovery in their book and lyrics which have been set to music by the prolific Romberg, who also wrote "The Student Prince," "Blossom Time" and many other musical successes.

George Houston, well-known New York star who has been alternately a leading man on the legitimate stage, in light and grand opera, will be heard in the dual role of Pierre and the Red Shadow, while Francia White, also a star of the light as well as grand opera, will be heard as Margot. Among Miss White's achievements is her role of Nedda in "Pagliacci" opposite Richard Bonelli. She also appeared opposite such outstanding operatic personalities as Chamlee, Rethberg, Crooks and Pinza.

Another important member of the company will be Bobby Jarvis, one of Broadway's best known singing and dancing juveniles. He has won fame for his light comedy in such hits as "Good News," "Follow Thru," "Cat & Fiddle" and "Roberta."

There are 90 players in the cast. It requires a special train to transport this huge production which is said to be lavish and is regarded as the best singing and acting organization ever brought together for an operetta. The production is under the direction of Homer Curran and Edwin Lester, and the symphonic orchestra will be directed by Arthur Kay.

The opening night of "The Desert Song" at the Curran promises to be a memorable event, not only on account of the tremendous importance of the people appearing in the cast, but because Sigmund Romberg, composer of its beautiful score, promises to be on hand.

Eight bands and music groups are in constant service at the 1936 California Pacific International Exposition at San Diego.

SYNOPSIS

The Duke, Barry Gilbert, likable youth of twenty-three, jobless and broke, enters an unoccupied summer home in Southampton, seeking shelter from a storm. He makes himself at home. Dozing at the fireplace, he is startled by the arrival of a butler, Willetts; and a chauffeur, Evans. He learns that the son of the owner of the house, Jack Ridder, whom the servants had never seen, is expected. He decides to bluff it out. His supposed parents have left for Germany. Next morning he is given a letter for his "mother." He opens it and finds a message from the real Jack, saying he could not come, and returning a hundred-dollar bill. The boy's father had pensioned him into obscurity. Barry pockets the money, intending to return it later. He orders Evans to take him to Montauk, intending to disappear there. On the way he meets Judge Hambidge and his daughter, Patricia. Believing he is Jack Ridder, she invites him to dinner the following Thursday. Barry returns to Southampton, deciding to stay a bit longer. Mr. Ridder, Sr., through his newspaper, the Globe, accuses Judge Hambidge of taking orders from Tammany Hall in a condemnation proceeding. Barry meets Peter Winslow, prominent attorney. Winslow tells Barry that Judge Hambidge had seen an accident in which a woman was killed by a taxicab. At home Barry finds the wife of the real Jack Ridder awaiting him. Her husband is in jail in New York, charged with the murder of Mike Kelly, Tammany boss. The girl, Peggy, tells Barry how she had met Jack in Florida and married him, as Jay Rogers. Jack lost his job, and they went to New York, where she got work at the Cocoanut Bar. There she was accused of trying to pick the pocket of Mike Kelly, and was arrested. Her husband went to Kelly's to induce him to drop the charge. Later Kelly was found dead, his skull crushed by a decanter. Barry suggests he can help as Jack Ridder, and Mrs. Rogers agrees. Judge Hambidge delivers a decision in the condemnation suit in which Kelly had been interested. Barry cables Mrs. Ridder for $2,000. Winslow takes Rogers' case. Barry gets a job on the Globe under his true name. The editor, Ernie Harwood, assigns him to cover the Kelly murder. Barry suspects the Filipino servant of Kelly. When Barry visits the Hambidges, the judge denies the accident he witnessed occurred near the scene of the Kelly murder, where such an accident had occurred. Patricia bids him: "Watch your step, Mr. Gilbert."

Suppose the Judge had killed Kelly. What did that prove? "I'm assuming that Kelly compelled this decision," Barry reminded himself. "Well, if he did, why should it have been filed after the compulsion was removed? It was filed the next morning. That certainly indicates that the Judge knew nothing about Kelly's death."

Once more, Barry heard the hall clock strike three.

"I'm arguing in circles," he thought. "And getting nowhere. That's where I've been getting all week. Gumming things up, too. Tipping off witnesses, and making a complete nuisance of myself. I said three things were clear, and they weren't, but two are. I've landed myself in a mess, and the sooner I get out of it the better for everybody.

"If I clear out, and let things take their course, I might come back, some day, when I've really made good—"

His hand still hurt the next morning, but the resolution to "clear out" remained fixed.

And he was still dreaming.

"Some day, when I've made good—" Willetts interrupted.

He was serving breakfast, at the moment.

"I was talking to Evans, sir."

"Yes?"

"Telling him what you told me last night, sir — concerning Mrs. Rogers, and the Kelly murder. Evans thinks it's very significant, what you said about Kelly expecting somebody after Rogers left."

"He does, eh?"

"Yes, sir. And he thinks he can find who it was."

Barry opened his egg.

"He'd like to tell you his scheme, sir."

"It's no use," Barry observed, curtly. "I've decided to drop the whole business."

"Yes, sir."

Willetts went on serving, but there was disapproval in his manner. Barry felt it, as he had twice before.

"Any reason why I shouldn't drop it?"

"That's for you to say, sir."

"But you think there is a reason. All right; sit down and tell me about it."

"I couldn't, sir. My position won't permit of my sitting down in the presence of my employer. It isn't done, sir. And your position won't allow of you leaving a woman in the lurch, sir. If you don't mind my saying so, that isn't done, either."

In utter amazement, Barry merely stared at him.

"You see," Willetts continued, quite forgetting himself, "a gentleman's got certain responsibilities. That's what makes him a gentleman. You said this lady's 'in trouble up to her neck.' It looks to me, sir, as if that was a pledge. It looks to me as though you were bound to make good, no matter what's happened."

He paused, and then his own impetus carried him on.

"You said, 'I've been a loafer most of my life.' A loafer might 'drop the whole business.' There's no reason he shouldn't. But it looks to me as if a gentleman ought to carry on, sir."

"You're right, Willetts. Tell Evans I'll be glad to see him in the library."

Barry, the "bum," had stepped into a gentleman's shoes, and found that they had to be kept shining.

All that Willetts had said, the former Duke had said to himself, over and over again. "That's all right for guys with an income," Barry had argued. "In luxury, and papa's office—sure, I'd run straight. Why not?"

Now he had an income, and was "in luxury and papa's office." "I won't be there long," Barry thought, "if I defy Pat. Anyway, I'm a gentleman, for the moment, and a gentleman can't 'abandon ladies in distress.'"

Pat was a lady in distress, too, he reflected. "In trouble up to her neck." "The way I went on last night," he ruminated, "anybody'd have thought that I thought the Judge killed Mike. What nonsense. That harmless old chap. If there's any chance of his being involved, why then it's up to me to find who did the trick. I've got two men to get out of difficulties."

Evans found him ready for the "scheme."

"As I get it from Willetts," Evans said, "somebody telephoned Kelly that he was coming right over. What would you do after you'd done that, sir?"

"Well, what would I do?"

"You'd hop in a taxi."

"Probably."

"So we want to round up the taxi-drivers that were in the neighborhood at that time. Luckily, there was an accident, Willetts tells me. My plan is to advertise—like as if we was the relations of the deceased lady. Fifty dollars reward for information leading to spotting the cab that deceased her."

"And then?"

"Then we third - degree everybody that answers the ad. 'Did you see the accident? How did you happen to be there?' It might turn the trick."

Evans was full of Barry's own zest for "sleuthing." And quite as eager to "jump at conclusions." Nothing discouraged him. What if the accident had occurred two hours after the probable time of the murder? Who knew that time exactly, and, anyway, the bait of reward might bring people who'd been in the vicinity long before the disaster.

It was arranged that the advertisement should instruct applicants to write to box something-or-other at the newspaper. And that gave Evans another idea. Why did Barry go to town by train? Why not drive in? He could use the car getting around, and to give Peggy—and, perhaps, the youngster—an occasional airing. Moreover—

Evans was enjoying himself thoroughly.

"Reading the newspapers, sir, I ask myself a lot of questions about this here Kelly. The Chink says he got home around eleven. Willetts says Mrs. Rogers says he left the Cocoanut

"And Why Do You Think It Might Have Been She?"

bar around nine. Where did he go then? His chauffeur would know, wouldn't he? You'd be surprised how chauffeurs loosen up to each other."

"I get you."

"Simple, ain't it? We find out where Kelly garages. Then I drive you in every Sunday, and keep the car in the same place. And I sugar up to the guy that drove Kelly. It mightn't lead to nothing, but then again, sir, it might, sir."

"It's worth trying. And I'm tremendously obliged to you."

"Don't mention it. After what you did for the missis. As a matter of fact, she put the whole thing in my mind. She's just busting to do something for you, Mrs. Evans is."

All of Evans' suggestions were followed the next afternoon.

And Monday, by appointment, Barry brought Mrs. Rogers to Winslow.

Harwood certainly had not overstated Peter's skill at cross-examination. Sitting opposite Peggy, the attorney led her gently into reminiscence, from which, again and again, he seized upon a word or a phrase as leading to possible material for the defense.

For the first time, the thing took on pattern. Winslow wasn't running about in a maze, but finding a beginning and an end. Taking care, too, that there should be no opening for his opponents of which he had been unaware. Casually, verifying every statement Jack had made to him.

"Tell the story in your own way, Mrs. Rogers. . . . Did your husband say anything about getting even when he left you? No. What time was that? What time did he return? Wasn't gone long, was he? Not really long enough for a violent quarrel?"

"I've told you," Peggy declared; "they were drinking together. And then the phone rang—"

"How do you know it rang?"

"Jack heard it. And he heard someone answer it."

"Someone."

"Jack isn't sure whether it was Kelly or the Filipino. They were both in the hall. Anyway, Kelly came back, and said he was expecting somebody."

"Did he say whom?"

"No."

"Did he say whether it was a man or a woman?"

"I don't think so." Peggy paused. "But it might've been a woman."

Peter nodded to Barry.

"Cherchez la femme."

"I got another idea," Peggy went on. "It might've been the platinum blonde."

"The what?"

"The platinum blonde. Violet Fane. She's one of the girls at the Cocoanut Bar."

"And why do you think it might have been she?"

"Well," Peggy said, "she knew Kelly. She'd just left him when he accused me of picking his pocket. And Morano'd been talking to her, just before that. She might've phoned Kelly to get me off."

Winslow made a note of this.

"I'll find out," he promised.

The interview lasted nearly two hours, and gave both of the visitors fresh confidence.

"They'll indict Jack." Winslow prophesied, as his callers were going. "Probably today. But don't let that worry you. A grand jury hears only one side. We'll do our talking at the trial."

"When will that be?"

"As soon as possible. We're ready now. They have no case. Just the Filipino's evidence that Jack was there. We admit that. But we deny either a motive or a quarrel. If the Filipino says he heard one—well, I suppose Mr. Ridder's given you his answer to that."

"Yes."

"He's got brains, all right," Barry told Peggy, in the elevator.

"Yes," Peggy returned, a bit throatily. "He's got brains, and a heart."

The grand jury found a true bill against Jay Rogers that afternoon. And Barry was off on a quest of his own. "If that was a woman," he decided, "we needn't bother any more about the Judge. And if I can catch that Filipino napping—"

Winslow had warned him against "tipping our hand." "All right," Barry thought; "I'll be careful this time."

The "cagey Oriental" answered his ring.

Barry's last visit had been with Tim Laugherty. Charlie — and Mrs. Kelly, for that matter—had assumed that he was another detective. The Filipino was plainly startled.

"Nobody is home," he said, conclusively.

"You're home, aren't you? And you're the fellow I want to ask a few questions."

"I don't know nothing," the butler insisted.

"You know who telephoned Kelly the night of the murder."

Charlie's putty face turned two shades lighter.

"I thought so," Barry said. "And, if you don't want to go straight to jail, you'd better tell me about it."

"I don't know nothing."

"All right. Come along."

Charlie reconsidered.

"You mean the lady that telephoned?"

"That's who I mean. Who was she?"

"I don't know."

"Didn't she give any name? Or leave any message?"

"No, sir."

"Came around here though, afterward, didn't she?"

"No, sir."

"Somebody did," Barry persisted; "After young Rogers went?"

"I don't know."

"You didn't let anyone in?"

"No, sir."

"Did Kelly let her in?"

"I don't know."

"But he knew she was coming?"

"I don't know."

"You're lying!" Barry exclaimed. "You told Kelly."

"No, sir," the butler replied, very positively. "When the lady phoned, Mr. Kelly—he wasn't home yet."

"What do you mean, he wasn't home—at midnight?"

"The lady didn't telephone at midnight," Charlie said, obviously bewildered. "It was eight o'clock when the lady phoned."

"But you told him that?"

"No," the Filipino answered. "I didn't tell nobody nothing."

"Who did telephone around midnight?"

"I don't know. Mr. Kelly answered that time."

"But you were in the hall?"

"Yes, sir."

"Kelly was sore at you. Why?"

The Filipino went pale. Only for an instant, however. Then he smiled. "Mr. Kelly not sore," he said. "Him very jolly that night."

"All right," Barry observed. No "tipping our hand" this time. "All right, and thanks." His tone was that of a man completely satisfied.

Late that afternoon, Barry took Peg and the boy driving in the park.

Peggy put a brave face on it, but fear was clutching her. "If anything went wrong," she said.

POSTS AND UNITS HOLD COMBINED SERVICES

Parade Through City And Participate In Impressive Program At Park

(By W. J. Lehigh)

The various organizations of Daly City responded 100 per cent on Memorial Day. A short parade from the top of the hill to the park, preceded the services. Rev. Baldwin was introduced and opened with a very impressive prayer. Master of Ceremonies F. Collins then read General Order No. 11, which was followed by a selection from the combined bands of Daly City. Mother Minerva, a 104 year old Civil War nurse, made a lengthy speech on the evils of war. She has a very strong voice for one of her advanced years and spoke without the aid of a micraphone.

The Memorial Services, by the combined efforts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion, were really very impressive. A beautiful song by Mrs. L. Johnson, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Grace Tallmadge, was followed by the placing of the wreaths and flags on the graves and then "Taps," the final bugle call which sounds over the graves of departed comrades. Comrade C. Ireton, chairman, and his coworkers are deserving of much credit for the success of these services. A short exhibition drill was given by the American Legion Junior Girls and Old Glory Ladies Drill Team.

In the afternoon the Ladies Auxiliary held services over the graves of comrades in spirit of Old Glory, at the Presidio Cemetery.

"It's the best looking coupe for 1936," is the unqualified comment you hear everywhere. "And it's the economy champion of the nation," say the A.A.A. official records, referring to the 24.27 miles per gallon of gasoline that put the Studebaker Six in first place in its price class in the recent Gilmore Yosemite Economy Run.

Real all-steel bodies, reinforced with steel, extra wide seats and such mechanical improvements as the exclusive hill holder and the automatic overdrive. It's a great car! Drive one before you buy any automobile this season.
